Dear Parent/Carer

Re: Director of Humanities - GCSE History After-School Enrichment

In order to support your child in achieving their challenging target in GCSE History, I am inviting them to after school support sessions with myself to consolidate work from completed units and to further develop their exam technique in preparation for their examinations. During the support sessions students will benefit from working with the Senior Director of Humanities, a very experienced member of staff who examines for the examination board that your child is following. They will also gain additional guidance and feedback in these sessions on how to improve their knowledge of the subject and their examination technique. Your child has been identified as an individual who would not only benefit from this additional support, but as a student that will embrace the opportunity to work alongside the Senior Director of Humanities to strive towards their GCSE target.

These support sessions are being held every Tuesday after-school up until February 2020 half term. The sessions will be led by myself, Senior Humanities Director, beginning at 2:35pm and will be finishing at approximately 3:30pm, taking place in Room H2. The cohort being invited to benefit from this intervention is small, and in order to ensure that your child is getting support that is appropriate and specifically targeted for them.

As such, we would appreciate your support in ensuring that your child attends the sessions as ultimately this will assist them in further improving their performance in GCSE History.

The support sessions on offer are a great opportunity for your child to improve their chances of achieving their potential and have been devised to support their classwork and the work that they are doing at home.

Yours faithfully,

Kate Wilson
